

Energy Procurement

Choosing The Path

In many parts of the US, customers have the option to procure energy from suppliers in lieu of the traditional utility Standard Offer Service. These third-party suppliers can offer different types of products and contract structures which can offer both risk management and cost effective rates.

While a third-party energy supply contract can be of great benefit to the end user, the opposite is also true. Suppliers don't always have the customer's best interests at heart, and in response to this reality, NuEnergen can help you ensure you are on the best contract for you.

How It Works

- NuEnergen works with you to understand your energy load profiles, facility operations and business objectives with respect to risk tolerance.
- We will competitively bid out your energy needs and collect quotes from various suppliers to develop a recommendation for you.
- After presenting our results and recommendations, we will assist you in the implementation of a supply agreement that you want to proceed with.

Minding The Store

Our work doesn't stop once we've executed a new contract with you. We are always monitoring the markets and will proactively recommend new strategies to save you money, in addition to managing the schedule of renewals so you don't have to.
